A Miller & Clements

the bill of sale of building was executed in the office of myself, that of the goods at the store of Miller & Clements, they were executed by Augustus Muller to plaintiff in the name of Miller & Clements, Clements was absent at the time, but afterwards agreed to the sale.
The consideration of the building was $5000.00 for which Jacob Muller gave his note - Augustus Muller is married, Clements is not, has occupied a room over the store, a formal delivery was made of the goods to Jacob Muller by Augustus Muller, myself was in the store very frequently, so far as his knowledge extended Jacob Muller had the care & custody of the goods, & so far as he had any means of judging managed the business - The notes received for the goods & building were delivered to Charles P. Muller, who was here and accepted the notes. Charles P. Muller came here about the last of April or first of May, I was attorney for the firm of Muller & Clements at that time, they said they were in debt to the Bank of Toledo about $5500.00, & to merchants in New York, that the plaintiff was their endorser to the Bank & they wished to secure him first, the object of the bill of sale was to protect Jacob Muller as their endorser to the bank, I advised the sale of the goods & store to Jacob, which Augustus Muller said he would do if the Bank would take the notes of Jacob Muller in payment, the bill of goods amounted to $2729.35, and the store to $500.00, the notes of Jacob Muller for these sums were given to Augustus Muller, payable to Miller & Clements, Augustus Muller stated that Miller & Clements owed the bank for money borrowed, On his cross examination myself stated that Augustus Muller came to him for advice, that Jacob

Muller had not called upon him when Augustus came the first time, but that afterwards he before the execution of the bills of sale ^{he} saw and consulted with him, The Notes for the goods stood from Jacob Muller to Muller & Clements were at 6, 9 & 12 months, or at 3, 6, 9 & 12 months in equal sums, Augustus Muller told myself when he called upon him for advice Mr Coes had called upon him for the payment of a New York debt, and wanted to procure a judgment Note, and that another firm had sent out a claim, and that Muller & Clements could not meet their liabilities, That he feared Coes would take a final judgment against them and get the claims in his hands to the exclusion of others, they had offers to secure Velverton & Fellows if they would give them time, this was not done to delay creditors but to secure their endorser, They wanted to secure this claim and wished to know how it was to be done, and I advised them that this was the best way, It was in the store of Muller & Clements the night the invoice of the goods was taken when they sold to Jacob Muller, I stood at the desk and made out the invoice as they Jacob Muller, and Augustus Muller called off the goods, I do not know whether they measured and weighed all the goods or not, I think they did measure and weigh some of them, we commenced taking the invoice at night and worked all night, we got through about sunrise in the morning, there was not any person in the store but Jacob Muller, Augustus Muller and myself - Jacob Muller took formal possession of the store and goods, The sign of Muller & Clements continued over the door,

I advised them that it was not necessary to change the sign, That there had not been any negotiation between Jacob Miller and Augustus Miller in relation to the sale of the goods to his knowledge, up to the time that he himself advised the sale of the goods to Jacob Miller. Miller advised the sale because he expected proceeds of some kind would be out in the morning against Miller & Clements, as Augustus Miller told him he expected it.

Charles R. Miller, called by Plaintiff - Resides at Toledo in Ohio, in the year 1848 was President of the Bank of Toledo, and its Managing Officer is not now interested in said bank, Augustus Miller & Clements, they had considerable dealings with the bank. They were indebted to the said bank in about $5,500. or $5,800. on Notes, on which Jacob Miller was endorser, as early as February they notified me that they should be unable to meet their engagements to the bank, and desired a new loan which was declined, They then stated that they had not yet received returns from the refinery, That they expected their New York Creditors would be out here, and they wished me to come, I came here to demand the claim due the Toledo Bank, after I came here I found that Miller and Clements had sold their goods to Jacob Miller, who was their endorser on the Notes due the Toledo Bank, I received the Notes given by Jacob Miller to Miller and Clements for the goods and building amounting to about $33,000. 00 - Preempted for this amount which wiped out so much of their indebtedness, Jacob Miller was worth $15,000.00 or $2,000.00 - If these gentlemen (Miller & Clements) Secured him, over and above his indebtedness. The money loaned to them went with their business here as I suppose, and some of it I know the Bank remitted to their New York creditors, I arrived in Chicago about the middle of May, found Jacob Miller managing the store, I was here about a week. Jacob Miller had been the Clerk of Miller and Clements for some time before he bought them out, he is the brother of Augustus Miller, and I married the sister of Jacob and Augustus Miller. The dealings of Miller and Clements with the bank ran from eighteen months to two years. I did not know until I arrived in Chicago that Miller and Clements had sold to Jacob Miller.

The indebtedness of Miller & Clements to the Bank accrued after they came to Chicago. Jacob Miller was endorsed to the full amount due the bank, Miller and Clements were liable to the bank beyond the sum I before stated, which has been since paid, if Miller & Clements had continued their business from the exhibit they made me they might have gone on with their business if they had received returns from the vineyard but without that he could not go on. I considered the paper of Jacob Miller to Miller & Clements good because he had property to make the amount from. It was stated to me that the goods and building given for the notes were ample, and that the notes were safe, the notes were endorsed to me by Miller & Clements, and my security for the notes received was precisely the same as the notes I received to Miller & Clements, The first notes were signed by Miller & Clements and endorsed by Jacob Miller, the last

Notes which I received to bear of them were signed by Jacob Miller and endorsed by Miller & Clements. Jacob Miller's property was in Connecticut, part of his paternal estate worth Nine Hundred Dollars, the other Six hundred dollars was his personal property. I knew that Jacob Miller was Clerk to Miller and Clements at the time he endorsed all the Notes to the bank.

Gardner recalled, produced an invoice of the goods levied upon made at the time of the levy by Beach the Deputy Sheriff, Clements, Beach, O'Connell and myself were present and none others, at the time of the making of the second invoice.

June 12 1848	By John Beach Copy

On his cross examination Beach was requested to produce the Execution speech on behalf of Hobson & Williams which he produced, and the defendant offered the same in evidence, to the reading of which plaintiff objected and the Court sustained the objection, upon the ground of the insufficiency of the Notice under which it was offered, to which opinion the defendant excepted. The Defendant then moved the Court for leave to amend said Notice by inserting therein the name of the Court from which said execution had issued, which motion was denied by the Court, and the defendant excepted to the decision of the Court. Beach further testified that when he went to Levy no one was there but Jacob Miller and he saw no change in the management of the business of said store good, at the time of the levy from what it had been prior thereto, That he went to Levy he found Jacob Miller in the store, He informed him of his business but Jacob Miller wanted witness to wait until his brother Augustus Miller came in which witness did, And Augustus Miller informed witness that Jacob owned the goods. The Sheriff has been fully indemnified for this levy. The property has been all sold by the Sheriff, under the said process, went with Augustus Miller to Gardiners office.

Walter Kimball, called by Plaintiff, Clerk of the Court County Court of Common Pleas, No charge of the records of said Court, produced and read to the Jury the Records of said Court showing that the attachment of Nelson and Graydon against Miller and Clements had been dismissed as is shown by the said records. (So with)

Witness knows the store and goods in question, the building was worth five or six hundred dollars, was often in the store, saw no change after the sale from Miller & Clements to Jacob Miller except in the condition of the goods, there seemed to be the same management and control went there twice and saw Jacob ~~Miller~~ then alone, Miller & Clements were not there then, I bought two barrels of whisky and wanted to pay for them by an account I had against Miller and Clements, this Jacob Miller objected to, and I had to pay the money for the whisky to him, — this was the first I ever heard that Miller and Clements had sold to Jacob Miller, this was some weeks after the sale to Jacob Miller,

John Beach was again called by the court for the purpose of advising the court as to whether the witness ^{was} ~~was~~ a competent witness and not as evidence to the jury, and on being interrogated by the court stated that he sold the goods & store in question upon the attachment, sued out by Nelson and Grayson and upon the execution of Gelverton & Hollons.

R. V. W. Cross - Called by the defendant, — testified, that he was employed as an attorney by Gelverton & Hollons of New York to collect a sum of money due from Miller & Clements to them, that he frequently called upon them for payment and urged them to pay or secure the payment of that debt which was two hundred dollars and upwards, that he was frequently about their store both before and after the sale alledged

I have been made to Jacob Miller, and that he saw no change in any way, nor did he hear of any change, either from the parties or any other persons, Miller & Clements were about the store as they had previously been and their sign was over the door as usual, had no reason to believe there had been any change, of possession in the store, made it his business to watch them men, on the day before Gilverton & Fellows obtained judgment against Miller & Clements, I heard of the sale to Jacob Miller.

Cros also testified that he had signed an indemnifying bond to the Sheriff indemnifying him against the levy under the execution of Gilverton & Fellows. And the Plaintiff thereupon moved to exclude his testimony which the Court overruled and the plaintiff excepted, which was all the evidence offered on the trial of this cause.

The Plaintiff then asked for the following instructions which were given, except the third, 1st If the Jury shall believe from the evidence that the sale from Miller & Clements to Jacob Miller, was made, before the levying of the attachment, for a valuable consideration and in good faith, and that Jacob Miller thereupon obtained delivery and possession of the property, but so long retained and used it, up to, and until, the levying of the attachment itself, then the damage in this case arising out of the levy of the attachment is for the plaintiff.

2nd If the jury shall believe from the evidence, that at the time of the laying of the attachment, upon the property in the declaration, the property was the property of Jacob Miller, And not the property of Augustus Miller and David H Clements, And that the goods so attached have not been restored to the said Jacob, Then the Plaintiff, ought to recover the value of such property, According to the evidence given of such value and may also recover interest from the date of the laying of the attachment, together with such additional damages as the Circumstances attending the attaching; May in their judgment seem to warrant.

3d. If the Jury shall believe from the evidence, that Jacob Miller was Secuity to the Bank of Toledo, for Miller & Clements, to the amount of some five thousand dollars, and that the Property sold by Miller & Clements to Jacob was to indemnify him for such security, Then Miller & Clements had a legal right to prefer Jacob Miller to any other creditor.

4th. If the Jury shall believe from the evidence that the Promissory Notes given, at the time of the sale, by Jacob Miller were debts to the Bank of Toledo, And that such Bank was then a Creditor of Miller & Clements, And that the Bank Cancelled so much of the debt of Miller & Clements as was equivalent to the amount of Jacob Millers Notes, Then the giving and transfer of the Notes and cancelling of the debt, was a valuable consideration for such sale of the property.

5th. If the Jury believe from the evidence that the conveyance from Miller & Clements to Jacob Muller was made in reality to seem him as their endorser and security to the Bank of St. Lode, and was made in good faith, and for a valuable consideration, and that the property was taken by Jacob at the time of the sale, and retained by him, then although it may have resulted in delaying other creditors, still it is a valid transfer, and vests the property in the plaintiff.

The Defendant asked for the following instructions which were given, 1st If the jury believe from the evidence that Muller and Clement remained in possession of the goods, and continued to exercise acts of ownership over the goods, then Jacob Muller under such circumstances could not protect the goods from the attachment in the hands of the defendant, 2nd What if the Jury believe the sale was made to Jacob Muller with a design to defeat, delay, hinder or defraud the Creditors of Muller & Clement in the collection of their claims against Muller & Clement, then they will find for the defendant provided the Plaintiff know it,

3^d That if the Jury believe from the evidence, that Muller & Clement at the time of the sale were insolvent, and made the sale about or about the time that they expected judgments would be obtained against them, it is evidence of fraud from which the Jury are at liberty to infer that the sale to Jacob Muller was made with a design to injure, hinder or defraud their Creditors if Jacob Muller had knowledge of thereof,

4th What if the Jury believe from the evidence that Miller & Clement after the sale to Jacob Miller retained concurrent possession with him of the goods it is a circumstance from which the jury may infer that the whole transaction was fraudulent as to the creditors of Miller & Clement.

5th When property remains in the possession of the vendor ^{after the sale as the visible owner} thereby, it is a fact from which the jury may infer that the sale was fraudulent and void against Creditors, 6th To defeat an execution by a bill of sale there must appear to have been a bona fide substantial change of possession, and if the jury believe from the evidence that Jacob Miller did not take and retain exclusive possession of the property claimed by him, but permitted Miller & Clement to retain concurrent possession with him, it is a fact from which the Jury may infer fraud.

The defendant also asked for the following instructions which were given as asked for by the defendant.

7th If the Jury believe from the evidence that no visible change took place in the ownership or control of the goods and property sold by Miller & Clement to Jacob Miller, after said sale, the Jury are at liberty to pronounced said sale fraudulent and void as to the creditors of said Miller & Clement.

8th If the jury believe ^{from the evidence} that Jacob Miller is the brother of Augustus Miller & the son of the ~~and~~ the ^{brother of Augustus Miller} brother of Charles P. Miller, they are authorized by law to take into consideration the fact of said relationship, in deciding ing upon the validity of the sale to Jacob Miller q'th If the Jury believe that the debt to the Bank of Toledo was a subsisting and bona fide debt due from Miller & Clements at the time of said sale, still if they also believe from the evidence that the said sale and purchase were made on the part of said Miller & Clements & Jacob Miller for the purpose as well of paying the debt to the Bank, as to delay further or defraud Gilchrist & Hollins and the other creditors of Miller & Clements, then it is their duty to find for the defendant.

10th If the Jury believe from the evidence that the conveyance by Miller & Clements to Jacob Miller was made for the purpose of indemnifying him as their endorser in the Bank of Toledo, and not as a subsisting creditor of said Miller & Clements at the time of the conveyance then the law is for defendant.

13th If the Jury believe from the evidence that the conveyance was made by Miller and Clements to the plaintiff for indemnity, that if that was the only consideration the conveyance being absolute in its terms was fraudulent as to creditors and the subsequent payment of the debt for which plaintiff was liable, can not alter the legal nature of said conveyance.

14th If the Jury believe from the evidence and the law placed before them, that the conveyance on which the plaintiff relies as showing his title to the property, was void in law as to the creditors of Miller & Clements then they must find for the defendant.

Decided on the 14th of December

The Jury will understand that the law to be followed is that which is given them from the Court. that in said action the jury are to be governed by the law as laid down by the Court.

The following instructions asked for by the defendant are now refused.

11. If the Jury believe from the evidence that no sale was made by the Sheriff of the property described in the declaration under the attachment and execution in question or either of them, then under the pleadings in this case, they must find the defendant Not guilty.

12. That the execution of Melvinton & Fellows being excluded from the Jury there is no legal evidence before the Jury of the conversation by the defendant of the property in question.

In the giving of which instructions on the part of the Plaintiff, and the refusal to give the instructions asked for by the Defendant, and to all the rulings and decisions of the said Court in the progress of the trial the said Defendant excepted at the time, and prays that this his Bill of Exceptions may be signed and sealed and made a part of the record.

Appeal from Cook.

The counsel for the appellant having carefully examined the record in this cause and attentively read and considered the opinion of the court affirming the judgments of the court below, have determined to solicit a re-hearing; and respectfully beg leave to submit the following reasons.

When the argument in this cause was heard the bench was not full, his honor Justice Trumbull being absent. The case is one of great importance, and involves a large sum of money. The defendant, was at the time of the commission of the alleged trespass ~~was~~ Sheriff of the county of Cook, and in that capacity, having ^{and attachment} an execution in his hands, against ~~the property~~ Miller and Clements seized the goods in controversy as the property of the said Miller and Clements under the following circumstances. Miller and Clements were merchants in the City of Chicago, occupying a store on Lake street, with their sign over the door, and as such possessed of the goods in controversy. The plaintiff was their Clerk. ^{+ brother of Augustus Miller} They were embarrassed circumstances. Executives were about to issue against them. see this state of facts existing on the 17th of April (1818). On the evening of that day Miller one of the partners of Miller & Clements (Clements at the time ~~because~~ being absent) anticipating the issue of executions against the firm, without attempting to negotiate a sale of the goods to the plaintiff who was then Clerk as before stated, and without any consultation with the plaintiff, goes to a lawyer in the city of Chicago for advice touching the most effectual mode of securing the plaintiff as their endorser to the Toledo bank, and stating at the same time his anticipation that an execution would be out against their firm in the morning. This lawyer advised a sale to the plaintiff of all the goods belonging to the firm of Miller & Clements. They return together to the store, and there the proportion is made to transfer the goods to the plaintiff which is assented to, and immediately the store is closed, and is secret, with no one seeing present.

Convinced fully that the Plaintiff, Augustus Miller and his attorney, the goods are received, the whole being stock not being either weighed or measured, and in the language of the witness a "formal delivery" of the ~~good~~ was made by Augustus Miller for himself and partner to the Plaintiff. And this was done in the night time, witnessed by no one but the parties above mentioned. Not one dollar in money was paid by the Plaintiff to Miller & Clements, and instead of the transaction purporting upon its face to be an indemnity to the Plaintiff as endorser for Miller & Clements to the Toledo bank, it was in reality an absolute sale of the ~~good~~, and the notes of the Plaintiff taken for the amount of the services negotiable at 3.6. 9 x 12 months. ~~of this~~ ~~in contract of indemnity see copy~~ ~~as After the transaction which~~ After this sham sale & formal delivery thus made in secret had transpired, morning dawned, and the sun rose upon the new establishment of "Jacob Miller" the sign of Miller & Clements remained over the store door, Jacob.

Under this former clerk was seen as usual in the store; in what capacity, whether as clerk, or owner was unknown to the defendants and the business men of Chicago. Clements slept in the same building as usual; he was still about the store as was the Augustus Miller. Both to all appearance managing the business as before the alleged sale & delivery took place. These were the principal circumstances under which the defendant took and seized the goods in controversy.
The mere statement of these facts is a sufficient justification for his conduct is reasonable in seizing the goods, as far, at least, as equity and good conscience are concerned. The defendant is sued for the trespass Jacob Miller the plaintiff alleging that he was at the time of the levy the owner of the goods seized.
The defendant after proving all of the above facts and other circumstances tending strongly to prove him in this transaction, offers in evidence an execution in favor of Gelston & Hollister, and against Miller & Clements for the purpose of showing his right to attack the sale & delivery as unlawful. This execution is excluded.

from the party upon the technical ground that the name of the court out of which it issued ~~was~~^{was} not formally set forth in the notice given by the ~~defendant~~^{plaintiff}, under his general cause plea. The defendant thereupon moves to amend his notice, a motion almost of course, but which nevertheless is discretionary with the court, and this motion is overruled, the winner of the issue being regarded by this court as the boasted Custos Rotulorum. Thus the very foundation of our defence is taken from us and a bold case of Malicious and wanton trespass on the part of the defendant in seizing the goods is laid before the party.
Nor is this all, the same court who excluded the foundation of our defence (refused an application to amend the notice because he is temporarily "clothed with power") adds insult to the injury already inflicted upon an innocent officer by instructing the party that as the measure of damage to which the plaintiff is entitled, they may give the value of the goods & interest from the time of the conversion to the time of the trial and such other damages as may in the exercise of an arbitrary discretion may think proper to allow him. Thus giving to the party the power of inflicting bonds money in a case above all others free from the all circumstances of aggravation, misconduct or Oppression. This is a general history of the trial in the court below as appears of record in this cause. Under these circumstances the party returns a verdict for the plaintiff for the sum of £3,236. 23., the defendant moved for a new trial which motion was overruled. and the defendant excepted & now prosecutes his appeal to this court. and assigns for error

- 1 In rejecting the execution
- 2 Refusing leave to amend notice
- 3 In giving plaintiff's instructions 24 & 5
- 4 Overruling motion for a new trial.
- 5 ~~overruling~~ Refusing defendant's instruction No 11.

The court in their opinion say that "the question of bond is not before us, nor was it properly before the party in the court below". and the reason assigned is that the execution being excluded, and no judgments having been rendered in the attachments such "they may be laid out of the question. To this position we beg leave to reply.

1. That the Sheriff seized the goods under the attachment & execution.

2. The attachment is set out in the bill of exceptions.
3. The attachment is properly described in the notice no 1.
4. The attachment was levied June 18 1848 or was not discharged until May 12 1849.
5. The court refused the instruction no 11 asked by defendant as to a postponement under this attachment.

Now upon this state of facts we wish, that the officer was not a trespasser by seizing the goods under the writ of attachment, but it issued out of a court of competent jurisdiction, it was valid upon its face, & not held by the defendant was required to make such no objection, he would have been guilty falsification if a neglect of duty if he had refused to do so, the more fact that the suit was afterwards dismissed would not make him a trespasser ab initio, in order to render him a wrong factor in proceeding the plaintiff should have

- 1 - Notified him of the dismissal.
- 2 - Demanded the re-delivery of the goods.

until this notice was given his possession was held lawful authority and he cannot be made a trespasser by relation.

But whether the defendant was entitled to this process notice or not of the principal of the furniture attachment suit, he was clearly not justified as a trespasser in retaining the goods for taking until the 12th day May 1849. & on ^{for Miller,} what day the record shows the good attachment suit was dismissed.
^{general} Two legal conclusions may be drawn from these premises viz.

1. The seizure having been made under an illegal attachment, and being lawless at the time, the defendant had made out a prima facie title to impeach the sale of the goods and chattels for want and cast the burden of proof upon the plaintiff to show that by some subsequent unlawful act of the defendant he had made himself a trespasser ab initio.

2. This state of facts which is admissible under the general issue, disproves the allegation in the declaration that the defendant unlawfully took seized and converted away the goods in said declaration mentioned and establishes conclusively that if the defendant ^{had} having acquired the ^{possession} goods lawfully, afterward wrongfully detained by converted them, the only remedy for the plaintiff was an action of tres-

3. The verdict of the jury as we have seen was £ 3. 286. 23.

The value of the goods was 2.448 78 of the building 50000

But on goods from ~~to~~ May 12

1849. When debt in possession became unlawful by the despatch of the attachment up to ~~the~~ Feb 13/50 is 11019

On the building 2250

£ 3.081.42

Leaving a verdict for an excess over and above the whole values & interests of the sum of £. 154.81.

These facts demonstrate the inequality of the second instruction given on the part of the plaintiff below, and which instruction, the assigned for error, and fairly passed upon the arguments by the counsel for the appellants, seems to have escaped the attention of the court.

This second instruction assumes as a legal proposition that the ^{true} measure of damage in this case is

1. The value of the goods.

2. Interest from the time of the seizure.

3. Together with such additional damage as as the circumstances attending the attaching may in their judgments seem to warrant.

The second branch of this instruction was clearly wrong, if as we insist the defince was lawful up to the time of the disposal of the attachments; and the illegality of the defendant's conduct, consisted of ~~not~~ in retaining the goods after attachment detached. And by means of this erroneous instruction the jury rendered a verdict of £154. 8s. More than as the plaintiff was entitled to recover under ~~the third proportion~~ the trial ~~branch~~ of this instruction is correct which gives the jury a discretion; a proportion ~~which~~ we must allow abhorrent to the first principles of justice. ~~such money as~~ vindictive damages are allowed ^{when} ~~where~~ a trespass has been committed under circumstances of aggravation or oppression, and in such cases it is ~~part~~ ~~that~~ the not the province of the jury to fix definitely upon the quantum of damages, but the court should instruct them that they must find from the evidence that the defendant has been actuated by malice, or that the trespass was a wanton ^{one}, before they can exercise any discretion.
 Whatever upon this subject of vindictive damages. Rose v Stoney 1 Barr P R 194. 4 Blackf R 348

The writ of attachment under which the Sheriff acted, having been issued by the circuit court, that court having jurisdiction to issue a writ of attachment, the law requiring an affidavit of indebtedness to authorize the court to issue the writ, the presumption of law is that such affidavit was filed, this prima facie establishes the relation of creditor & debtor between the plaintiff in attachment and Shillies & Clements against whom the attachment issued, at least in a collateral action like this where the defendants being a sheriff and the person to whom the writ was directed is publishing his acts under the writ, Prima facie then ^{and at least} he is entitled to justify his seizure, to present a verdict of vindictive damages, by showing that the sale of the goods in controversy were conducted ^{and at least} ~~in~~ ^{and} credit to creditors.

Another question ^{compounded} of law and fact we beg leave to present to the court as a ground of a rehearing. ~~we do say this under the writ of attachment~~ to the we think we have established the position that the defendants having made the desire as sheriff under a writ of attachment, which was made upon its face and issued by a court of competent jurisdiction at the date of a creditor, whose debt, for the purpose of his specification & prima facie established proved, has a right to attack this sale as fraudulent. Taking this proposition as a tenable one, the verdict may against law & evidence in this particular. The law requires delivery to creditors the possession of goods & chattels shall accompany and follow the deed or sale, also all such conveyances shall be void in law. Is this rule a mere matter of fancy, existing only in contemplation of law, or is it a tangible and substantial rule intended for practical and beneficial purposes. If the latter, what substantial act is contemplated by the law in order to make a valid transfer of personal property to creditors and subsequent purchasers? Possession of goods is prima facie evidence of title. Credit is extended and over the property purchased on the faith of the visible ownership couched by the possession of ^{the} goods. What kind of possession does the law contemplate? It means an actual possession in a visible, and notorious possession, as ~~contradistinct~~ Contradistinguished from a secret & mixed or deceptive possession, which may be in one while to all appearance it may be belong to another. Unless then the possession upon a sale is changed law & in fact, unless that possession is open, visible and notorious so as to leave no doubt upon the minds of the community as to the facts in whom the possession resides, it is calculated to deceive mankind, and delude them who have contrived it by their equivocal acts & conduct contributed to the left deception must bear the consequences of their own neglect.— Apply these principles, to the facts proved in this case (X. which will not be repeated) and there answer the question, was there in this case such an open & visible change of possession of the goods involved in this controversy, as to give notice to the world that Miller &

Clements had ~~been~~ ^{been} ~~only~~ ^{only} ~~held~~ ^{held} with them title to claim? we answer there was not.

Actions' the party have passed upon this question of possession, yet their finding under the circumstances is settled to us we get whatever.

1. Because the court withdrew the question of fraud from their consideration by excluding one execution & attachment.
2. Because the facts necessary in law to constitute a possession of the good as against creditor was not given the party in charge by the court.

Another point in this case, and which was overlooked by this court in delivering their opinion arises out of the giving of the & the instruction by the court below as asked by the plaintiff. This instruction is objectionable upon these grounds.

1. It is deceptive & calculated to mislead the party as to the time referred to, when the arrangements with the bank of Toledo was effected; upon a fair construction it refers to the time of the alc. when in fact as appears by the evidence of the President of the bank (Cloud Miller) the arrangement was made in May 1848.

one month after the date of the good was made.

2. It is erroneous in assuming that the facts as in stated would con - stitute a consideration for the bill of sale. Before the sale the plaintiff was endorser and Miller & Clements makers of the notes due the Toledo Bank, after the date. the only change (and this one month after) made was that the plaintiff became principal and Miller & Clements sureties to the Bank. The difference is "trust and surety deed". These facts constituted no consideration whatever.

3. This instruction declares that a transaction fraudulent in its incarnation, may become purified by subsequent acts of the fraudulent parties, this involves a contradiction in morals, as well as in law, The fifth instruction is also erroneous in this.

The mere liability of a party to pay a debt affords a consideration for a promise of indemnity or an actual in - demnity is no consideration for a transaction which upon its face imports to be an absolute, ^{sale of good} & founded upon the notes of the debtor given for the purchase money as in this case.

Again in relation to the sufficiency of the execution upon the ground of the insufficiency of the notice, we have but one or two suggestions to make ~~present in this opinion is~~ ^{reason} ~~to the opinion that~~

The Court in their opinion say "Had Mr. M. & Clements been lawyers to and the notice given to them, we should be inclined to hold the notice sufficient" ~~we~~ ^{safely} ask before what ground is this inclination of the court based?

in language of the court because "they might reasonably be supposed to know what judgments & execution were referred to". The same reasons apply with as much force to the plaintiff.

1. When the alleged fraudulent sale was made it was in anticipation of this very execution & the plaintiff knew it.
 2. When the defendants made the levy upon the goods in controversy it appears from the evidence that the plaintiff ~~knew~~ was informed of ~~the~~ his intention to levy this very execution.
- Again there is a much stronger reason why this notice is sufficient as against the plaintiff. He claims to be a bona fide purchaser of the goods from Sheller and Clements. Creditors on the contrary allege it to be a fraudulent sale, the only point in a controversy of this kind which the plaintiff has a right to notice of is that we impeach his purchase as fraudulent. If his purchase is bona fide, the same proof is necessary to substantiate it against the creditor as another; and he must come prepared to defend his title. It makes no difference to him whether we claim as creditor under a distress, execution, mortgage or otherwise, so that it is impossible for him to be surprised.

In conclusion we refer the court to the Case Wilson v Rastall 4 T.R. 753 cited in which Mr Kenyon says "Whenever a mistake of the judge has crept in and swayed the opinion of the jury I do not recollect a single case where the court have ever refused to grant a new trial". That ~~error~~ ^{county court} ~~in any mistake~~ of the ~~court~~ ^{case} have crept into this, upon the trial, which have greatly swayed the jury, is manifest upon an inspection of the of the record, that the merits were not fairly tried is evident, and that justice requires a new trial we do not entertain a doubt; and we trust that the ~~Supreme~~ Court upon a review of the case will grant a re-hearing and having heard a new argument reverse the judgment and remand the cause for a new trial.

Isaac Cook appointed

Jacob Miller

Protested against a Re-hearing -

The object of a Re-hearing is to re-examine a cause. It will be granted when the case has not been fully argued - or some point has been overlooked - or there is some great legal or constitutional question decided.

In this case, there has been very full, long, able & elaborate Argument. The case was fully & deliberately considered by the Court. & the decision arrived at is in accordance with Law & Equity.

There is not in the petition for a Re-hearing, any new suggestion, no further authority, no new Argument.

The Petition is a mere restatement of the Argument before the Court.

It is mere pertinacity, & a contradiction with the opinion of the Court.

1. The statement of facts in petition is not a fair statement, as appears from the Bill of Exceptions.

There was no fraud in fact, nor any intent of Chaging for Chaging it.

It is simply a question whether Miller, the Endorser for Millett & Clements, bona fide, & honest, shall be ruined, or whether some of the N. York creditors of Millett & Clements shall suffer -

Cook, the appellee, has no interest in the results, being pretty indemnified.
Unhappily, indeed, the keeping of friends of such of the property, for next year, may be useful, & to his interest.

It is assumed that Miller & sons of Millett & Clements went to Gardner the atty, without first consulting Jacob Miller.
This is untrue in fact, & is a gratuitous assumption.

After the sale, the endorser does not stand a single act of ownership over the property - in fact of Millett & Clements.

Jacob Miller died and sold, by exchange £c. £c.

The jury below, the Court below, & the Court here - have found against prince.

We stand in the position of the law rising on the establishment of Jacob Miller. The "whims" of the Court &c.

These things need no reply.

It would be presumptuous, in the course, making these suggestions, to add argument & illustrations to sustain the opinion of the Supreme Court.

The reasons & pre-re-hearing - have all been ably presented to the Court in the Argument. They are neither strengthened, nor improved in the petitions - Having endeavored to answer them when first presented, I will not go over the ground again.

It is said that the attachment satisfied the Sheriff, altho. subsequently dismissed. True as against Mills & Clements. But Jacob Mills, had a bill of sale from them. There being no judgment ~~in~~ ^{on the first hearing} for the debt, as shown by the record, the Sheriff could not satisfy, our cause as raised the question of grace.

Even if he had have properly raised the question of grace, the giving have negatived it.

The Court is most Earnestly requested, not to by granting a Rehearing for Mistrial or Re-hearing to seriously consider, if not more to curb Mills.

Juries has been done, the law faithfully Administered I trust & believe the Court will grant to the fervor of Counsel what it desires to this logic & argument —

4th instruction would mislead the jury because there was no cancellation of the debt of Miller & Clements to the Toledo Bank, it merely changed their liability as makers to that of endorsee. This instruction also declares that the transaction fraudulent in its inception was made honest became bona fide by the subsequent transfer of Jacob Miller's notes to the Toledo Bank.
